GOA, INDIA

A TASTE OF GOA

Discover Goa's unique blend of Indian and Portuguese cultures, and delight in the region's culinary wonders. Churches present the best insight into the Portuguese colonists, as they built both Se Cathedral and the Basilica of Bom Jesus in the 17th century. For an enlightening religious contrast, you will next visit the ornate Hindu temple Shantadurga, which is dedicated to the goddess Durga, the protective mother of the universe. For a literal taste of the region, you will stroll the aromatic grounds of a spice farm and then dine on a sumptuous meal flavoured with spices grown on the premises, such as turmeric and cardamom.
